Supervisors: Residential road too narrow for trucks

SAN BERNARDINO - The Board of Supervisors on Tuesday agreed to prohibit commercial trucks on Banana Avenue between Arrow Route and Foothill Boulevard in unincorporated Fontana.

“Residents contacted my office to let us know this part of Banana is residential and too narrow to accommodate the trucks that used the road regularly,” Board of Supervisors Chairman Paul Biane said. “Public Works took a closer look and determined the residents were correct.”

Public Works will install signs prohibiting commercial vehicles weighing more than 5 tons on Banana Avenue between Arrow Route and Foothill Boulevard. The California Highway Patrol has been notified about the change.

Truck drivers, however, can continue to use Banana Avenue to the south between Arrow Route and Whittram Avenue. The restriction on Banana does not apply to local delivery trucks, school buses, utility trucks or garbage collection vehicle.
